II. Brief Information about the Activity (NAAC Criterion Number)

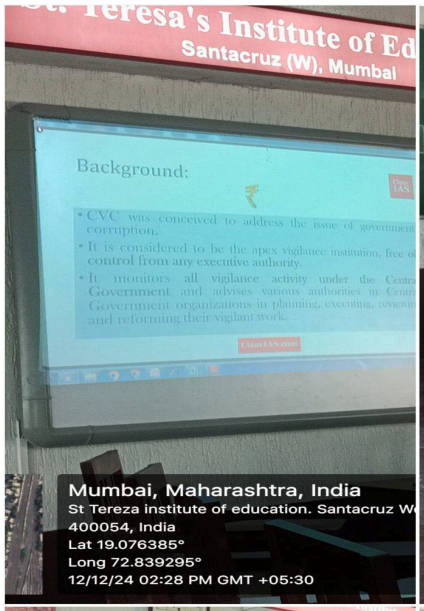

Topic/ Subject of the Activity	Vigilance day celebration
Objectives for conducting activity	• To create awareness about corruption and its impact on national development. • To foster a sense of responsibility among student-teachers to promote integrity and fairness in their personal and professional lives. • To encourage critical thinking and active participation through debates and quizzes on combating corruption. • To emphasize the importance of individual accountability in eradicating corruption.
Methodology	• The Vigilance Day celebration began with an introduction to the theme. • Students from the five internship groups participated in a debate on the topic, "Are stricter laws and punishments enough to eradicate corruption?" encouraging critical discussion . • A short video on corruption and integrity was then screened, followed by an engaging quiz for all students. • Lastly, internship groups created online posters for a social media campaign, shared on the college's Facebook page. • The event concluded with a vote of thanks, inspiring students to uphold a culture of integrity in all aspects of life.
Outcome	• Students gained a deeper understanding of the multifaceted approach required to combat corruption, including stricter laws and personal integrity. • The activities encouraged students to reflect on their roles as future educators and citizens in fostering a culture of integrity. • The social media campaign helped spread awareness beyond the classroom, reaching a broader audience and reinforcing the message of fairness and justice. • The celebration successfully instilled a sense of responsibility among students to contribute to a corruption-free society.
