Objectives

- To mark Right to Information (RTI) Day, observed on 28 September, through a symposium organised on 1 October.
- To enhance teacher trainees' understanding of the RTI Act, 2005, through active participation and collaborative learning.

Methodology / Summary / Programme Details

- The topic "Right to Information (RTI) Act" was divided into logically sequenced subtopics and assigned to 44 SYB.Ed. students. Detailed guidelines for the symposium were shared in advance.
- Each student presented her assigned subtopic using a digital poster highlighting its key points. The presentations followed a systematic sequence to explain the provisions and procedures under the Act.
- The 44 digital posters were compiled into a flip-book titled "RTI Chronicles: A Journey to Transparency" for future reference and continued learning.
- Participation certificates were issued to the students through the NDLI Club Portal.

Learning Outcomes: Students were able to

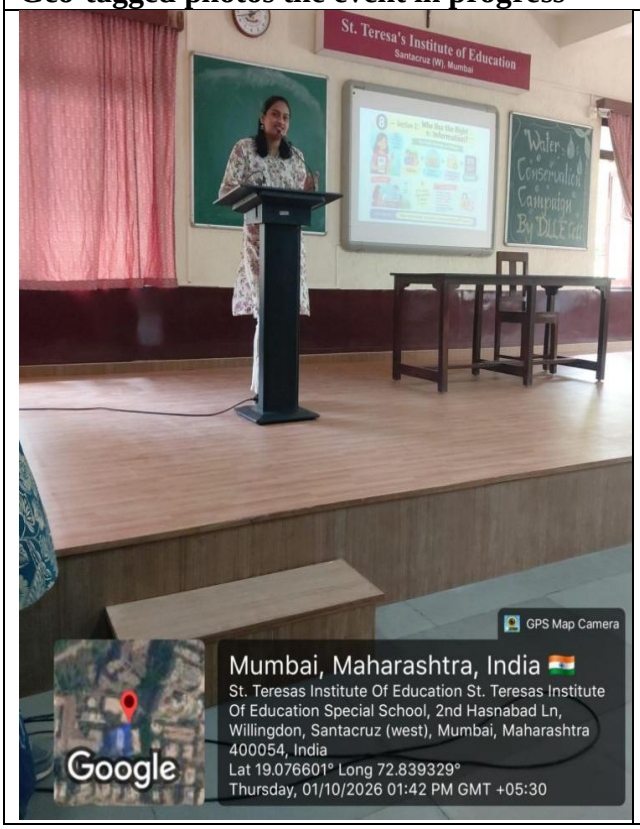

- Understand the purpose, significance and key provisions of the RTI Act, 2005.
- Develop a systematic understanding of the RTI process, from filing an application to the subsequent stages of seeking information.
- Enhance their research, digital presentation and communication skills.
- Strengthen their understanding through peer teaching and active participation.
